The 2020 honorees were recognized in a special section of the publication earlier this month. Scott was one of only 50 companies recognized and was ranked No. 7 in the small company category, which included companies with 10 to 49 employees housed in the Raleigh area.

"It is a great honor for Scott to be recognized as a top-tier employer in our region," said Diana Mason, Vice President and Raleigh Branch Leader. "Our Raleigh team is comprised of world-class talent and we are extremely proud of our positive workplace culture. We look forward to our continued growth in the Raleigh market in the years to come."

The winners were chosen based on an employee-survey process conducted by Quantum Workplace. Once nominated, a company had to meet a threshold in employee participation – a percentage that varies based upon the size of the company – to be eligible to be honored.

"Employees are the lifeblood of any company," TBJ Publisher Jason Christie said. "These 50 companies have demonstrated belief that happy employees produce successful and thriving businesses."
